Saqib Razzaq

Hi Saqib,

You recently changed your security settings so that your Google Account [saqib.razzaq.aspose@gmail.com] is no longer protected by modern security standards.

If you did not make this change

Please review your Account Activity page at <https://security.google.com/settings/security/activity> to see if anything looks suspicious. Whoever made the change knows your password; we recommend that you change it right away.

If you made this change

Please be aware that it is now easier for an attacker to break into your account. You can make your account safer again by undoing this change at <https://www.google.com/settings/security/lesssecureapps> then switching to apps made by Google such as Gmail to access your account.

Sincerely,
The Google Accounts team
